Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Nasal Catarrh quickly yields to treatment by Ely's Cream Balm, which is agreeably aromatic. It is received through the nostrils, cleanses and heals the whole surface over which it diffuses itself. Druggists sell the 50c. size; Trial size by mail, 10 cents. Test it and you are sure to continue the treatment.

Announcement.
To accommodate those who are partial to the use of atomizers in applying liquids into the nasal passages for catarrhal troubles, the proprietors prepare Cream Balm in liquid form, which will be known as Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price including the spraying tube is 75 cents. Druggists or by mail. The liquid form embodies the medicinal properties of the solid preparation.

THE FOUR LEAFED CLOVER.

The four leafed clover will bring luck,
I often heard them say,
And o'er the meadow, up the hill,
Across the mountain way,
I started off one summer morn
A tired, hopeful rover,
Until, at last, I chanced to find
A single four leafed clover.

How fortunate I thought myself
I never can relate.
I kept it ever by me,
A charm to conquer fate,
But it never seemed to work, ah, me!
I've thought it o'er and over,
But the very day that I found luck
Was the day I lost the clover.

—Mary Allegra Gallagher in Weekly Bouquet.

DOCTOR AND PATIENT.

Which Needed Assistance?

Paul Berget could not keep still. Now he was at one window, now at another and the next moment was out in the yard. He held his hand over his eyes and looked up the road—stared, indeed, so far ahead that his eyes seemed to burst forth. Hither and thither he tripped, and whenever he caught sight of any one his cry was:

"What on earth has become of Simon and the doctor? I'll surely die before they reach me!"

Paul Berget was the younger brother of Simon, the farmer who had gone after the doctor, and for the following reason:

About six months before our story begins Paul became terribly ill one evening, and the old doctor was summoned. Paul had eaten something that he could not digest, but the doctor did not trouble about that. He never inquired as to the cause of a sickness, but merely asked where the sore part was and then did his best to make it well. So he gave Paul some warm drinks and some horrible medicine, and, sure enough, Paul quickly recovered.

The doctor, however, was not one of those who make small account of a sudden attack of illness from which the patient quickly recovers; and he did not fail to assure Paul that he had been near death's door and that if they had not called him in time— Finally he warned Paul to be more cautious in the future.

Since then Paul had done nothing but think about his health. Not a moment was he quiet, and he found it impossible to sleep sound at night. The doctor had told him to be cautious, and if the old pain came back—what was he to do? Finally a night came when he was in a terrible condition. All night long he walked about the house, and at 5 o'clock in the morning he woke Simon.

"Get up at once and go for the doctor."

"What, are you sick again, Paul?"

"Yes, I am. The pain comes and goes, but I can't shake it off."

"It's dark yet. Wouldn't it be better to wait awhile?"

"Wait! Do you want me to die on the spot? It's now two days, and the doctor says—oh, do hurry, Simon! I only hope you'll not be too late!"

"Yes, yes; I'll get up right away. But are you really sick? The doctor will be mad as a hatter if you bring him from his warm house and he finds there is nothing the matter with you."

"Nothing the matter when I tell you that I am threatened with a dangerous illness? Why, I may not be alive when you get back!"

Simon went off as fast as he could, and Paul was looking for him to come back and was tripping around everywhere. At last he noticed a moving speck far down the street. Yes; there they were at last, and in a sleigh, but wasn't the horse rather dark? He stood watching, with outstretched head and following the moving point as though he would draw it to him. Finally he went into the house, dressed and washed himself and, seating himself on the edge of the large, old fashioned bedstead, awaited the doctor.

Meanwhile Simon and the doctor were driving up the narrow road. The weather was mild, and, although the doctor was load enough for Blakken, the old brown horse, the sleigh sped smoothly along. The doctor in his sleigh, by the way, made very much the same impression as a snowplow. A great portion of his body was visible at both sides of the horse. He was so stout that he could not get on a horse's back, and he increased his size by wearing an unusual number of winter garments. He wore shoes, inside slippers and heavy woolen stockings as well as an overcoat, a shawl and a heavy plaid lined with wolf's fur. In such fashion was he attired on this occasion, and therefore, though the weather was mild, Blakken felt that he had an unusually heavy load to carry.

When they came to the foot of the hill, they stopped. Simon scratched his ear and hesitated. Blakken also seemed to be waiting. The truth is the poor beast was accustomed to have persons dismount here and walk up the steep hill. Simon scratched himself again, but what could he do? It was impossible to move the ponderous doctor, and so in despair he urged poor Blakken to go ahead.

The ascent was most difficult, and Simon had to take care that the sledge was not upset. Blakken climbed up sideways, pausing now and then and giving a long look backward as though he would say, "You senseless persons, why don't you walk up the hill?" Finally they reached the top, and here they rested a good while. When Simon finally told Blakken to go on, the horse showed great unwillingness, for he saw another hill before him. At last he started and, wonder of wonders, almost immediately broke into a trot. This unusual speed lasted till the summit was reached, and there a calamity befell the party. Without a moment's warning the sledge was overturned, and the big doctor was tumbled into the ditch.

Paul meanwhile still sat on his bed. Suddenly he heard some one come into the adjoining room. Now, since he was sick, he ought to be in bed, and so he threw himself down on the bed and drew the long fur blanket over him.

The next moment Simon stuck his head into the room and said breathlessly:

"Are you alive, Paul?"

"Yes, but I'm bad enough. Isn't the doctor with you?" he whined.

"No; he's lying yonder on the hill The sleigh was upset, and I couldn't bring him here, and there's no one around the house to help me. Now, whether you're sick or not, you've got to get up. We can't let the doctor die out there on the hill."

"Well, I can't be worse than I am," replied Paul, jumping out of bed, and the next moment they were running down toward the doctor.

There the big man lay, soft and warm and with his face the color of a boiled lobster, and from him came a torrent of abusive language, while near by stood Blakken, calm and contented, as usual. It was not easy to get the doctor up—nay, the more Simon and Paul worked the deeper he sank into the soft snow.

They tried to raise him, but in vain. Nothing then remained but to remove the big pile of snow that surrounded and hemmed him in. After a quarter of an hour's hard work they were finally able to grip him firmly by the arms, and then two or three mighty tugs set him on his feet. Great was his wrath when he at last stood erect—so great that he was wholly unconscious of Paul's presence. The latter, too, on his part thought that it would make a bad impression on the doctor if he saw him there, and so he resolved to sneak home and get back into bed before the other reached the house. There was no place, however, where he could hide himself from their view, and so he had to get home behind them as best he could, his only hope being that he could get back into bed before the doctor had got out of his fur coat.

The doctor suddenly vowed that he would not go a step farther. "I'll go home and sleep," he growled, "and don't go for a doctor again until you have a decent road to drive on."

Simon, however, had now a word to say.

"Upon my conscience," were his words, "you've come so far now that you'll have to come the rest of the way even if I have to carry you to the house on my back!"

This made the doctor smile, and so his anger vanished.

"All right," he said, "but I tell you, Simon Berget, that if you upset me again I'll call down all the plagues and pestilences in the whole world upon you."

"In that case I'll know what to do."

"What will you do, Simon?"

"If I upset you again, the best thing I can do is to let you lie there."

The road was now better, and Blakken went so quick that not a thought of Paul entered Simon's head until just as they were entering the courtyard. Well, it would be impossible now to get him back into bed before the doctor had removed his fur coat. But where was he? He certainly was not making extraordinary haste back to the house. And the worst of it was that if the old doctor insisted upon anything it was that his patients should not leave their beds until he gave them permission.

Well, there was nothing to do but face the inevitable. Simon tried to delay the doctor as much as possible, and it took him an unconscionably long time to get the old man out of the sleigh, but once the doctor was in the house off went his fur coat, and he was ready for buiness.

"The patient is in bed, of course," he said and started to enter the room.

"Yes—no—yes. The fact is he's not exactly in bed, but you'll see him in a minute."

"What on earth do you mean? Not in bed?"

"Yes, yes; he went to bed, but there was no one at home, and we couldn't let the doctor lie out there in the snow and catch his death of cold."

At that moment Paul appeared on the scene.

Thereupon the doctor's wrath returned, and he cried:

"What kind of a trick is this—to send me word that you were at death's door? Come, what do you think is the matter with you?"

Paul had suddenly become very shamefaced.

"Oh, I'm all right now," he replied. "The fact is, the pain has all gone," and then he added quickly, "What helped me the most was lifting the doctor out of the snow."—New York Herald.

Quit Fishing to Fish.

"In editing copy remember to cut out all superfluous words," said the managing editor to the new copy reader. "Very often there are many words such as 'still,' 'but' and the like used in a way not only useless, but absolutely bad. Now, remember and knock 'em out."

Not long afterward the copy reader was editing a short story sent from a fishing resort up north. The copy reader never went fishing in his life and didn't know one piscatorial term from another. In the copy he found "the men finally quit still fishing and began trolling." He remembered very distinctly the instructions of the managing editor about "still" and such words and with one sweep of the blue pencil obliterated "still." The men to whom the story referred were rather surprised to read in the account of their fishing expedition in the paper that "they finally quit fishing and began trolling."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Why It Is Called Dutch Gap.

When Ben Butler was endeavoring to get the Union gunboats up the James, he found the water in the bend at Dutch Gap too shallow to let them pass, to say nothing of the fact that the Confederates had erected two or three batteries along the bend in order to give him a warm reception. So he went ahead and cut a canal across the neck and suddenly, instead of being 13 miles from Richmond, he was only six. Ever since that time the canal has been used, and the government now considers it the channel of the river and keeps it in shape. The plantations along the land were thus suddenly drained of their very lifeblood and have naturally fallen into decay.

The place is called Dutch Gap because at this spot, in early colonial days, a Dutchman worked a very smooth game upon the unsuspecting Indian. The Dutchman wagered the Indian that he could beat him paddling a canoe around the bend. The Indian took him up on the instant and gave him a mile the start. They started just above the bend, the Indian a mile behind, and when the Dutchman reached the neck he jumped on shore, grabbed his canoe out of the water, ran across to the other side with it, dropped it into the water again and calmly awaited the arrival of the astonished Indian, who had paddled frantically around the bend in the endeavor to catch up with him. What the wager was is not recorded, but the Dutchman doubtless got possession of 200,000 or 300,000 acres of land as a result of the trick.—Cor. Chicago Record.

Made Fat by Water.

There is a six foot laundryman in Norristown who weighs 300 pounds. It is his own fault too.

"When I was 18," he will explain sadly, "I was like a lead pencil. A thinner fellow you never saw. I heard then that if I wished to get fat I need only to drink, morning and evening, as much water as I could hold. I wanted very badly to get fat, so I began this water treatment. A pint or so was at first my limit, and even that would sicken me, but as time passed my capacity became greater. Soon I could drink two or three quarts, and in time I could as easily drink a gallon. Well, the result was excellent. I took on flesh at a great rate. I got, too, so that I enjoyed my long night and morning drinks. I would look forward to my gallon draft all through the day. When, after seven years, I had reached the nice weight of 170 pounds, I decided to stop the treatment. But, alas, I couldn't. The long habit had grown too strong. It had made me a slave. And ever since I have been drinking, night and morning, a gallon of water—I do enjoy it so—and every year I taken on from 15 to 20 pounds. Finally, I guess, I'll bust."—Philadelphia Record.

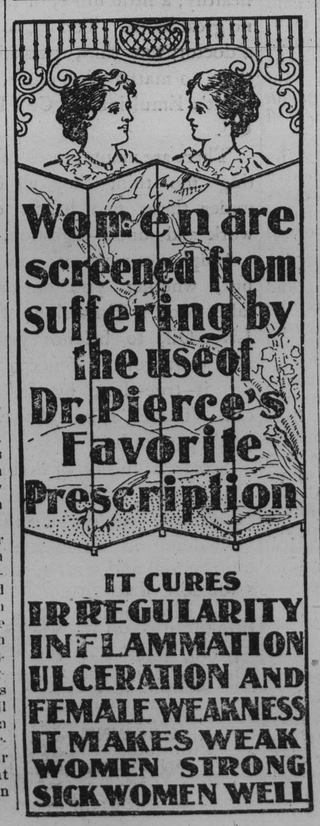

Kicked on the Story.

Probably most writers of serial stories are familiar with the sensation of receiving letters of commendation or disapproval from interested readers who are following up the stories as they appear in their regular weekly or monthly installments. Occasionally some curious person asks for private information as to what the outcome is to be, while others offer suggestions as to the disposition to be made of the villain or express a fear that the author is to marry the hero to the wrong woman.

The writer of a serial story in one of the popular magazines a few years ago received the following letter from an indignant reader. The names are changed for obvious reasons:

Dear Sir—I take the liberty of telling you that I regard your "Simeon Stacy," now running through The Blank Magazine, as a little the thinnest novel I have read. Furthermore, the principal character in the story, to whom you give the title role, so to speak, is so thoroughly detestable a man that I have taken the most effective means in my power to show my contempt for him by changing my name—which happened to be the same as his—to something as unlike it as possible. Yours truly, ANDREW JACOBSON, Formerly Simeon Stacy.

THE State Fruit Growers' Convention will convene in San Francisco December 4th and will be in session four days. The principal topics that will be taken up will be the securing of cheaper means of transportation, extending the market for fruit and improving the methods of growing, packing and preparing the fruit for market.

The solution of these questions means everything for the fruit industry of California, particularly the widening of the fruit market and preventing over production, as in the case of prunes, the growing of which everybody rushed into a few years ago and they became a drug on the market and thousands upon thousands of full grown trees were up-rooted to give place to something that would prove more profitable. Had more attention been given by our farmers to these fruit conventions in the past this would not have happened. It therefore behooves the tiller of the soil, and particularly those engaged in fruit growing, to attend the convention next month and lend their aid in solving the problem of profitable fruit culture in California. Among those who will take an active part in the proceedings are Prof. Bioletti of the University of Calffornia, formerly a resident of this place, and John Markley of Geyserville.

A RUSSIAN physician holds that the electric light is the least injurious to the eyes and that candle light is the most harmful. He states that the oftener the lids are closed the greater the fatigue and consequent injury. As a result of his experiments he compiled the the following table showing the number of times a minute the lids were closed with different illuminations: Candle light 6.4-5, gas 2.4 5, sun 2-15, electric 1.4-5.

THE OBSERVER.

Stanford University and its Teachers.

Because of the publicity given to the discharge of Prof. Ross from Stanford University and the relationship which exists between that institution and the people of this State it is high time that the President or the Trustees of the University or Mrs. Stanford should make an open or direct statement of the reasons for the discharge. Free speech, however it may be abused by fools and idiots and demagogues, is a thing too precious to be denied anywhere by any one without the consent of the people. The people of California are anxious to know under what conditions a teacher in Stanford may teach. Must he teach in accordance with a program outlined by Mrs. Stanford or the Trustees of the University? Are there some subjects which he must not touch upon? Or is he told to seek for truth wherever it may be found, and when he believes he has found it to teach it, giving his reasons? At the present moment the people of this State have a right to believe it possible that all the teaching in Stanford is warped and twisted so that it may not meet with Mrs. Stanford's displeasure. If this is the case it would have been better for this State and the whole world had Senator Stanford thrown his twenty million dollars into the deepest hole in the Pacific ocean instead of using it to found an institution for the promulgation of lies and the fostering of cowardice. For how else can it be described, in the light of our present information. It is evident that some one in authority fears a free and open and intelligent discussion of some of the questions that are to-day engaging the public attention. And if a man is forbidden to tell the whole truth as he sees it and so tells only part of the truth when the people suppose he is telling the whole truth it is as evident that a lie is told as when a trader in selling a horse pronounces him sound, but does not say that he balks.

The young couple have taken up their residence near Seattle. The bride is a sister of Frank and Paul Perasso of this place. The groom is a prosperous young farmer of Washington.

Miss Bertha Campbell and Miss Maude Murphy sailed last Tuesday for Manila. Many of the relatives and friends of the young ladies were at the dock to say farewell and bid them bon voyage. They came laden with beautiful flowers which will help make bright and pleasant their voyage across the briny deep. The scene was most affecting and many tears were shed as the large vessel weighed anchor. Upon the arrival of the young ladies they will be taken to the home of friends, where Miss Murphy will be united in marriage to Mr. Oscar Campbell, who is now one of Manila's prominent young business men. Miss Bertha Campbell will remain with her brother and his wife for a year, then she will visit her sister Mrs. Florence Ogg and her brother Ernest, who reside on one of the islands of our new possession.

Getting Thin

is all right, if you are too fat; and all wrong, if too thin already.

Fat, enough for your habit, is healthy; a little more, or less, is no great harm. Too fat, consult a doctor; too thin, persistently thin, no matter what cause, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil.

There are many causes of getting too thin; they all come under these two heads: over-work and under-digestion.

Stop over-work, if you can; but, whether you can or not, take Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, to balance yourself with your work. You can't live on it—true—but, by it, you can. There's a limit, however; you'll pay for it

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the readiest cure for "can't eat," unless it comes of your doing no work--you can't long be well and strong, without some sort of activity.

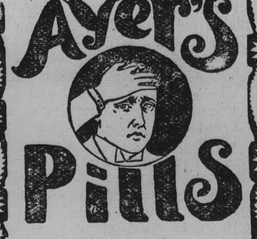

The genuine has this picture on it, take no other.
If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

The Irl R. Hicks 1901 Almanac.

Whatever may be said of the scientific causes upon which the Rev. Irl R. Hicks bases his yearly forecasts of storm and weather, it is a remarkable fact that specific warnings of every great storm, flood, cold wave and drouth, have been plainly printed in his now famous Almanac for many years. The latest startling proof of this fact was the destruction of Galveston, Texas, on the very day named by Prof. Hicks in his 1900 Almanac, as one of disaster by storm along the Gulf coast. The 1901 Almanac, by far the finest, most complete and beautiful yet published, is now ready. This remarkable book of near 200 pages, splendidly illustrated with charts and half tone engravings, goes as a premium to every subscriber who pays one dollar a year for Prof. Hicks' journal, Word and Works. The Almanac alone is sent prepaid for only 25c. Order from Word and Works Publishing Company, 2101 Locust Street, St. Louis, Mo.

FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER.

The Best Prescription Is Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

The Formula Is Plainly Printed on Every Bottle, So That the People May Know Just What They Are Taking.

Imitators do not advertise their formula knowing that you would not buy their medicine if you knew what it contained. Grove's contains Iron and Quinine put up in correct proportions and is in a Tasteless form. The Iron acts as a tonic while the Quinine drives the malaria out of the system. Any reliable druggist will tell you that Grove's is the Original and that all other so-called "Tasteless" chill tonics are imitations. An analysis of other chill tonics shows that Grove's is superior to all others in every respect. You are not experimenting when you take Grove's—its superiority and excellence having long been established. Grove's is the only Chill Cure sold throughout the entire malarial sections of the United States. No Cure, No Pay. Price, 50c.

FIERCE SOU'WESTER.

Heaviest Storm Experienced in Sonoma Valley for Years.

The storm which set in last Sunday culminated Tuesday night with one of the fiercest gales that has visited Sonoma Valley for several years. The rain came down in torrents all night long, being accompanied by a sou'wester that for a time threatened to shake the houses from their foundations in the exposed portions of the valley. Considerable fencing was blown down, but aside from this little damage was done.

The precipitation Tuesday night was 1.57 inches and the various streams which empty into Sonoma creek were running bank full Wednesday morning, converting the latter stream into a raging torrent.

Thursday morning it cleared up with a heavy frost, the first cold snap of the season.

Broadway Property Owners Must Fix their Sidewalks.

Revised Ordinances Passed to Print—Bills Passed.

At a regular meeting of the City Trustees, held Wednesday evening, a full Board was present, as follows: President Duhring and Trustees Davis, Hotz, Ciucci and Harris.

The minutes of the previous meeting having been read and approved the following bills were taken up and passed:

Jno. D. Waonign repairs	$ 2.00
C. W. Collier, labor	2.00
Leo Caminati, labor	2.00
D. A. Fussil, hauling gravel	7.00
Wm. Trudgen, laying crosswalk	20.25
L. H. Green, lumber	6.68
H. H. Granice, assignee, rebate on license	5.00
Total	$44.95

The following resolution, introduced by Trustee Hotz, received a second from Trustee Ciucci and was carried by the following vote: Aye—Trustees Hotz, Harris, Ciucci and Duhring, Trustee Davis not voting:

Resolved, That the City Marshal be instructed to notify the following named property-holders that unless the sidewalks abutting on their property fronting on Broadway be put in passable condition within fifteen days after service of this notice that the city will proceed to have the said sidewalks curbed and graveled at the expense of the delinquent property-owners: Mrs. R. B. Lyon, Mrs. Hope, Mrs. M. A. Martin, Mrs. Geo. Estes, S. H. Shaw, John Burke, J. P. Weems and others.

On motion of Trustee Harris, seconded by Trustee Hotz, A. Dalessi was allowed a rebate of $5.00 on license No. 700. A warrant was ordered drawn for that amount.

A communication from the League of California Municipalities was received and placed on file.

On motion of Trustee Hotz, seconded by Trustee Harris, ordinance No. 68, revising the city ordinances, was passed to print by a unanimous vote of the Board.

The Board then adjourned.

Pierce Powers Passes Away.

Pierce Powers, the well-known farmer of Summit Joint, died at his home quite suddenly last Saturday. The deceased had been suffering from a broken ankle, but was rapidly recovering from the injury. On Saturday he was seized with heart failure and passed peacefully away.

Mr. Powers' aged widow survives him. He was a brother of the late Richard Powers of Boston, Mass., and was born in Beichaven County Cork, Ireland. Mr. Powers, was aged 76 years and 8 months. During his life time the deceased has had many narrow escapes from meeting with a violent death. Within the past ten years he has twice been run down at railway crossings—once by a Donahue train near Maxwell's and once near the Warfield place, Glen Ellen. On both occasions his wagon was reduced to kindling wood and a horse killed. Both times he miraculously escaped serious injury, although he was badly cut up in the accident at the Maxwell crossing. Only a few weeks ago he was thrown from his seat by the jolting of a heavily loaded wagon and had an ankle badly crushed by a wheel passing over it.

Mr. Powers was a genial old gentleman and was well thought of by his neighbors for his many excellent qualities of heart and mind.

He was buried from St. Francis' Church Monday, the remains being laid to rest in the Catholic Cemetery in this place.

Orchestra to Play.

Sunday evening, November 25th, Maxwell's orchestra will play at the Congregational church. A fine programme has been prepared and the people of the valley may expect a musical treat. The orchestra has not played in public since last June and the people are naturally interested in seeing what progress has been made. The number of members remains about the same as when the last concert was given, though some changes have occurred, and the playing has improved wonderfully. Should the weather be favorable a large crowd will undoubtedly be present as the orchestra is very popular with our people.

A Few Pointers.

The recent statistics of the number of deaths show that the large majority die of consumption. This disease may commence with an apparently harmless cough which can be cured instantly by Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, which is guaranteed to cure and relieve all cases. Price 25c and 50c. For sale by all druggists.

THE WEATHER.

Local U. S. Signal Officer Robt. Hall's Observations.

November, as predicted, came in sunny and warm under the combined influences of Vulcan and Mercury. Several days this month the temperature has reached 80 to 84 degrees, and in some localities cherry trees developed bud and blossom, altogether premature. However, it was most favorable weather for flowers and seeding.

With this prediction for November came a warning that December would be a wet and boisterous month, with floods and freshets. On the 9th of this month wild geese were on the wing, going southeast, an indication of cold or stormy weather up north. This was followed by a reactory disturbance and falling barometer, which gave us a bountiful rainfall the past week.

On the night of the 20th, commencing at 5 P. M. and ending at 7 A. M. the next morning, the precipitation was 1.57 inches; for the month, 4 40; for the season, 7.06 inches.

This storm has been remarkable for the extent of the precipitation and for the amount of snowfall in the higher altitudes. This would indicate that the Japan gulf stream is trending far south of the Aleutian Islands. At all events a single glance at astronomy for December shows the earth is in conjunction with Uranus, Saturn and Jupiter, and the planet Neptune being in opposition in the midst of all will give California, without a doubt, a prolonged shower bath—that is to say, if one swears by Prof. Hicks and his storm forecasts. Keep a memorandum and see.

Thrilling Encounter With a Panther.

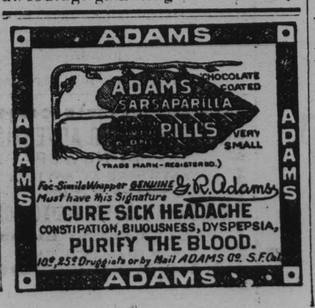

R. A. Ohm of Ukiah, Mendocino county, is the guest of his brother Constable Chas. H. Ohm of Embarcadero. Mr. Ohm, who is a hunter of big game, recently met with a thrilling experience in the mountains of Mendocino county. While in pursuit of deer with a pack of five or six hounds a large panther was set upon by the dogs and before Mr. Ohm could dismount from his horse and bring his rifle to his shoulder the animal succeeded in dispatching one of the hounds and was making the fur fly from the hides of the balance. When a favorable opportunity offered he took aim and shot the panther through the shoulder. Wounded, the rage of the beast was terrible to behold, and the whole pack of hounds were in imminent peril of being exterminated when Mr. Ohm, unable to get another shot at the animal without jeopardizing the dogs, threw down his gun and joined in the scrap with his faithful hounds. He seized the panther by the throat and threw his entire weight of 175 pounds on the beast and held him down. Then commenced a struggle for the mastery between man and beast. For an hour and three-quarters the combat lasted and during all that time the brave hunter never for once loosened his hold on the panther's throat, and slowly but surely he choked the life out of the creature, which was one of the largest and most vicious of its kind ever killed in the wilds of Mendocino county. To this day Mr. Ohm bears the marks of the terrible conflict, the lower portion of his body being frightfully scarred by the claws of the animal.

CITY TRUSTEES LICENSE GAMES OF CHANCE.

Nickel-in-the-Slot Machines Must Pay $15 per Quarter.

At a meeting of the City Trustees Wednesday evening an ordinance was passed taxing nickel-in-the-slot machines that pay in money $5 per month. Machines that pay in cigars, drinks, etc., are taxed $3 per quarter, while those that grind out vocal and instrumental music must pay a license of $1.50 per quarter.

The object of the ordinance is to discourage gambling in our midst.

SCHELLVILLE.

Personal Notes and Social Happenings.

Marriage of a Former Teacher of San Luis School.

Miss Dora Howe was a visitor to the metropolis Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Van Every visited Peter Hein Sunday.

Peter Hein made a business trip to San Francisco last Tuesday.

Constable C. H. Ohm was called to Santa Rosa on business last Monday.

The schooner "Four Sisters" is undergoing repairs for the coming wine season.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hanks of San Francisco passed through this place last Tuesday.

Emile Lounibos and Frank Riser killed thirty-six ducks, mostly teal, at McGill's last Tuesday.

Wine shipments to San Francisco by the schooner "Four Sisters" will commence next month.

Robt. R. E. Donahue will sail for Seattle next Thursday. He will be absent several months.

Wm. Hamilton, manager of the Jones ranch, returned from a brief business trip to the metropolis Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John Guilfoyle (nee Watt) of Embarcadero are the proud parents of a baby boy, born on November 16th.

Miss Josephine Kiser boarded Monday afternoon's train for San Francisco, where she will visit relatives and friends.

Will Stofen, after a visit of several days with Schellville friends, has returned to his home in the metropolis.

Julius Poppe took in the marshes last Sunday. He bagged a jack rabbit, three mud hen, a flask of whisky and a lot of beef-steak.

Fred. Poulson and Fred. Bailey shot over decoys in Sonoma creek near this place Sunday and bagged eight large ducks.

Will Church speeded his greyhounds on the Kiser farm last Monday. The fleet-footed animals ran down six Belgian hares which had escaped from a rabbitry.

The Schellville Gun and Rod Club made a great kill of ducks on their preserves in the marshes bordering Sonoma creek, one day this week. Over sixty ducks were bagged.

Chas. H. Ohm has already publicly announced himself as a candidate for the Republican nomination of Sheriff of Sonoma County. It is true the election will not be held for two years yet, but evidently Charley believes in taking time by the forelock.

Miss Juanita Conley and the Rev. G. M. Cutting were married in San Francisco last Monday at the Holy Trinity Church. Only relatives were present. After the ceremony the happy couple left for a two weeks' visit in Pacific Grove. The bride is a cultured lady and five years ago taught in the San Luis District School of this place. The groom is the rector of the Episcopal Church of Santa Rosa and their future residence will be in the City of Roses.

SONOMA'S "PEEPING TOM."

Again Causing Consternation in the Residence Part of Town.

Sonoma's "Peeping Tom," after a lapse of several years, has again made his appearance here, although the "Lady Godiva" has not been announced to ride through the streets of the town to tempt him hither. But he is here just the same and is the real thing.

A number of years ago this individual, who is apparently a harmless crack-brained fool, caused great consternation among the timid of the fair sex by prowling around private residences after nightfall. He was frequently detected in the act of peeping into the windows of parlors and bed-rooms and upon being discovered avoided identification by taking to his heels, and to this day the fellow's identity is unknown.

During the past week or two a number of ladies have been badly frightened by the crank. He is up to his old trick of peeping into the windows of private residences, always during the absence of the male members of the family, otherwise he would have been shot or arrested long ago.

Wedding Reception.

The wedding reception given by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Amstelden last Saturday evening was attended by over one hundred guests, who were entertained right royally. At 12 o'clock the guests sat down to a sumptuous spread to which they did ample justice. Mr. and Mrs. Amstelden will make their home on the Duhring ranch three miles southeast of town.

Twenty couples from Napa City were in attendance, who greatly enjoyed the hospitality extended on this jolly occasion.

Whooping Cough.

Whooping cough is epidemic in this place and a large number of children are suffering from the troublsome complaint. Of the twelve little girls who were to take part in the fairy cantata "The Katydids," to be given by the the ladies of the Congregational Church next month, six are afflicted. This will prevent the little folks appearing in the play, which will be produced by the Congregational Church ladies at some future day.

Episcopal Church at Schellville.

Services of the Episcopal Church will be held at the San Luis School house on Sunday, December 2d, at 11 A. M. Everybody come. W. G. Clark, rector.

Twelve Reasons

FOR TRADING AT THE

Racket Store

1—You are sure of getting a good article.

2—Their prices are the lowest.

3—They have but one price to all.

4—They see that you get just what you want.

5—They cheerfully exchange goods returned or refund the money paid.

6—They are truthful in their statements regarding the quality, etc., of their goods.

7—They turn most of their stock three or four times a year, keeping their goods fresh, up-to-date and desirable in every way.

8—They buy for cash, sell for cash, are energetic and industrious, and sell a large quantity of goods at prices close to the cost of manufacture them.

9—The close prices you get on some goods at other stores is due to the aggressive work of the Racket Store, and to the Racket Store that trade justly belongs.

10—Their profits are expended in Petaluma in assisting to maintain the homes and in paying the living expenses of the nine families represented by the active workers in the store.

11—Besides all of the above reasons, there is yet another: For the year 1900 you receive your share of $2,000 in cash or valuable premiums according to the amount of your purchases.

12—Their large and increasing business proves that people find it to their interest to trade at the Racket Store.

AND FURTHER, they have a genuine surprise in store for the public about January 1st. Whatever that may be or whatever they do, you can depend on its being both honorable and progressive.

Garrick and Murphy.

Conferring the "freedom of the playhouse" on playwrights and men of letters was common in Garrick's day, and without doubt the good natured manager was often pestered for the same favor by persons who had no such claim. It was evidently Garrick's custom to give tickets of admission, permanent orders, to those whom he desired to honor. It is recorded that the Irish writer, Murphy, annoyed at what he thought ill treatment or neglect, returned the ticket with the words, "As I do not foresee any further occasion for this obliging passport, I am not willing to trespass too long upon your civility."

Garrick's answer was such as to reflect the greatest possible credit upon himself: "If you choose to relinquish your right to the freedom of Drury Lane playhouse, you certainly will do as you please. But without the ticket, I imagine, Mr. Murphy will find the doors open to him, as usual, and be it further known to you, sir, that as I thought you were above an undue influence I never meant the ticket as the least tie upon the liberty of your pen or conversation."

It may be safely inferred that Garrick presented the same permanent passport to his gruff but faithful friend, Dr. Johnson. It is hardly too much to say that the great player's generosity was as notable as his acting, and his acting was probably such as the world has never surpassed.

Chinese Superstition.

When General Grant was visiting China, Chester Holcombe, for many years secretary of the American legation at Peking, secured for him a privilege never before that time accorded to a foreigner, the privilege of adm'ssion into the sacred precincts of the Temple of Heaven in Peking.

Now, it is contrary to the settled belief of the Chinese to admit a member of the female sex, old or young, even to the temple ground, under any circumstances. It is said that should a Chinese guard venture even to carry a baby girl in his arms within the forbidden lines he would probably be punished with death. Not knowing of these restrictions, a number of ladies in General Grant's party ventured to follow him when he visited the sacred edifice.

Realizing the seriousness of this action, Mr. Holcombe afterward apologized to the emperor's representative for the conduct of his countrywomen and was informed that the intrusion would be overlooked, but must be kept as secret as possible, for should the populace learn of it an antiforeign outbreak would be likely to follow. They would not forgive such a pollution of their most sacred building.—Leslie's Weekly.

To Clean and Polish a Piano.

In cleaning and polishing a piano go over the woodwork with a cloth wet with paraffin oil, being generous with the oil where the woodwork is very much soiled. Let this remain two or three hours. This is to soften the dirt. Then wash with soap and water and a soft cloth, being careful not to let any water touch the works inside the piano. Use a good white or a white castile soap. Wipe dry with a soft cloth and polish with soft, old linen or chamois leather.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Counting Buttons.

In my early schooldays (1855-60) in Yorkshire we counted one another's buttons, after the fashion of sorties, according to the order "tinker, tailor, soldier, sailor, rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief." Sometimes "apothecary, plowboy," came in. The first time after my ordination that I went into Sunday school I noticed one little boy counting the buttons on my cassock from the bottom upward. Has anything been written about buttons? Whence such phrases as "Dash my buttons," "I don't care a button" and "He's got all his buttons on?" It is possible to have too many. It is related of some North American red men that they refused to listen to the teaching of an English missionary because he could not readily explain the existence of buttons on the back of his coat where they were of no use. Also there is the case of the Frenchman who committed suicide because life was all "buttoning and unbuttoning." As for their significance, we may instance the buttons of the mandarins and the sad history of Sir Walter Scott's schoolfellow, whose wits went wool gathering when he missed the familiar button.—Notes and Queries.

A Country of Clear Water.

About one-half of southern Alaska is water. The inlets and bays are so numerous as to be one of the wonders of the world. Both the salt water and fresh water are remarkably clear. Fish and other marine animals may be seen to the depth of 20 and 30 feet beneath the surface of the water. There are no sandy beaches and no tide flats. The timber comes down the water's edge. The waters are so cold that fish as well as shellfish are good throughout the year.—Kansas City Journal.

An Indo-Chinese Venice.

The royal palaces of Bangkok form a city in themselves. They consist of several hundred individual palaces, surrounded by magnificent gardens and pagodas. Bangkok is really a city of waters. It is an Indo-Chinese Venice. More people live in floating homes on the Menam, "the Nile of Siam," and in many canals than in permanent buildings.

A Changed Man.

"It's funny how marrying changes a man," said Spriggs' caller.

"Yes," replied Spriggs dreamily. "It used to be that I was devoted to baseball and football and basket ball, and now I give all my spare time to baby's bawl," and he arose hurriedly and went into the adjoining room.—Detroit Free Press.

A Village Blacksmith Saved His Little Son's Life.

Mr. H. H. Black, the well-known village blacksmith at Grahamsville, Sullivan Co., N. Y., says: "Our little son, five years old, has always been subject to croup, and so bad have the attacks been that we have feared many times that he would die. We have had the doctor and used many medicines, but Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is now our sole reliance. It seems to dissolve the tough mucus and by giving frequent doses when the croupy symptoms appear we have found that the dreaded croup is cured before it gets settled." There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains no opium or other injurious drug and may be given as confidently to a babe as to an adult. For sale by F. Duhring. *

To remove a troublesome corn or bunion: First soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it, then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily; rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn for a few days, to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequaled For sale by F. Duhring. *

A Minister's Mistake.

A city minister was recently handed a notice to be read from his pulpit. Accompanying it was a clipping from a newspaper bearing upon the matter. The clergyman started to read the extract and found that it began: "Take Kemp's Balsam, the best cough cure." This was hardly what he expected and, after a moment's hesitation, he turned it over, and found on the other side the matter intended for the reading.

At Bed Time

I take a pleasant herb drink, the next morning I feel bright and my complexion is better. My doctor says it acts gently on the stomach, liver and kidneys, and is a gentle laxative. It is made from herbs, and is prepared as easily as tea. It is called Lane's Medicine. All druggists sell it at 25cts and 50cts. Lane's family medicine moves the bowels each day. If you cannot get it send for a free sample. Address, Orator F. Woodward, Le Roy, N. Y.

The Light of the World or Our Saviour in Art.

Cost nearly $100,000 to produce. Contains nearly 100 full-page engravings of our Saviour and His Mother by the world's greatest painters. True copies of the greatest Masterpieces in the art galleries of Europe. Every picture is as beautiful as a sunrise over the hilltops. Contains description of the paintings, biography of the painters, the names and locations of the galleries in Europe where the originals may be seen. Also contains a Child's Department, including a Child's Story of the Christ and His Mother, beautifully written, to fit each picture. This wonderful book, matchless in its purity and beauty, appeals to every mother's heart, and in every Christian home where there are children the book sells itself. Christian men and women are making money rapidly taking orders. A Christian man or woman can in this community soon make $1,000 taking orders for Christmas presents. Mrs. Waite, our agent in Massachusetts, has sold over $3,000 worth of the books in a very short time. The book is printed on velvet-finished paper, beautifully bound in Cardinal Red and Gold, and adorned with Golden Roses and Lilies. It is, without doubt, the most beautiful book of this century. Write for terms quickly and get the management of that territory. You can work on salary or commission, and when you prove your success we will promote you to the position of Manager and Correspondent, at a permanent salary, to devote your time to attending to agents and the correspondence. Wanted also a State Manager to have charge of office in Leading City of the State and manage all the business of the State. Send for terms. Address—

Moody's Vote of Thanks.

Possibly the most novel response ever made to a request to return a vote of thanks to a chairman was that made by Mr. Moody during his first visit to England.

He had attended a meeting at which the Earl of Shaftesbury was chairman. The duty of proposing a vote of thanks was assigned to him and the announcement made:

"Our American cousin, the Rev. Mr. Moody of Chicago, will now move a vote of thanks to the noble earl who has presided on this occasion."

The whole thing was quite out of Mr. Moody's line. English formalities might or might not have come gracefully from his lips had he attempted them, but he did not. With an utter disregard of conventionality he burst upon the audience with the bold announcement:

"The speaker has made two mistakes. To begin with, I'm not the Rev. Mr. Moody at all. I'm plain Dwight L. Moody, a Sunday school worker. And then I'm not your American cousin. By the grace of God I'm your brother, interested with you in our Father's work for his children.

"And now about this vote of thanks to the 'noble earl for being our chairman this evening.' I don't see why we should thank him any more than he should thank us. When at one time they offered to thank our Mr. Lincoln for presiding over a meeting in Illinois, he stopped it. He said he'd tried to do his duty, and they'd tried to do theirs. He thought it was about an even thing all round."

That opening fairly took the breath away from Mr. Moody's hearers. Such a talk could not be gauged by any known standard. Mr. Moody carried his English audiences with him from that beginning to his latest labors.—Youth's Companion.

The Astor Butcher Trust.

From the northern end of Chatham square starts the Bowery, and a few steps from its commencement is the building now used as a Germen theater, which was once the Old Bowery. Before the Bowery theater and previous to the Revolution the same site occupied by a building which has a place in history because Washington slept in it. This was the Bull's Head tavern. Being close by the city slaughter houses, all the butchers who came to town stopped at this inn, making it the first commercial inn of its day. During the Revolution Henry Astor, brother of John Jacob Astor, owned the Bull's Head tavern. He leased it to Richard Varian. But Varian went privateering and left the inn to be conducted by his wife.

Astor was a butcher and conducted his business in the Fly market in Maiden lane. He incurred the enmity of all the butchers in the town by conceiving the brilliant idea of riding far out along the Bowery lane, meeting the drovers as they brought their cattle to town and buying their stock, which he sold to the other butchers at his own price. As the lane was really the only road to the city, Astor in this way formed a trust and prospered for many years. The inn, too, prospered until 1826, when it gave place to the Bowery theater.—Home Journal.

He Let Him Out.

The king of Naples, in the plenitude of his absolutism, paid one day a visit to the Neapolitan prisons in order to see for himself what sort of men his criminals were and whether they really deserved the punishments they were undergoing.

"What is your sentence?" he said to one. "Fifteen years, your majesty." "And what had you done?" "Nothing whatever." "Quite innocent?" "Entirely so, your majesty." "And you?" he asked another. "Thirty years, sire. Victim of false accusation." "And you?" to a third. "In for life, my king." "And what had you done?" "Everything you can think of, my king; theft, burglary, highway robbery, manslaughter, murder. I only wonder they did not sentence me to death." "What is your name?" asked the king. "My name," replied the first class criminal, "since I have been here has been 912."

After finishing his tour of inspection the king said to the governor: "All the prisoners here seem to be perfectly innocent. There is only one bad man among them. No. 912. You had better let him out, lest he corrupt the others."—Argonaut.

No Case.

"You charge this man with impersonating an officer, do you?"

"I do, your honor."

"Tried to make you believe he was a policeman, did he?"

"He did."

"When he was in the saloon with you, did he"—

"He didn't go into any saloon, your honor."

"The prisoner is discharged."—Chicago Tribune.

All His Fault.

"Women beat the world."

"What's the matter now?"

"When my wife wants anything pretty to wear, she hints around until I persuade her to buy it, then after she has worn it out she pitches into me for encouraging her to be so extravagant."—Chicago Record.

Distinguished Testimony

No secret society in the world stands higher in noble aims and charitable accomplishments than the Knights of Pythias. That order is doing great good, and one of its finest institutions is the Ohio Pythian Home, at Springfield, Ohio, which is ably presided over by Superintendent Le Fevre and his wife, Mrs. Callie I. Le Fevre, the matron. The latter has recently written a letter, which will command widespread attention because of the prominence of the writer. It is as follows:—

CALLIE I. LE FEVRE, Matron Ohio Pythian Home.

"Messrs. W. H. Hooker & Co., New York: Last year I used Acker's English Remedy at the suggestion of a friend, for a serious, long-standing throat difficulty and extremely hard cough. Had used many well-spoken of preparations without relief. I can honestly say that Acker's English Remedy removed the difficulty and stopped the cough. I did not purchase or use more than three bottles, and at least one-half of the last is still on hand. I also consulted physicians with no permanent results." (Signed) CALLIE I. LE FEVRE.

The friend to whom Mrs. Le Fevre refers as having suggested Acker's English Remedy is Mrs. W. B. Chilton, wife of the president of the Troy Transfer Co., of Troy, Ohio, where this remedy has accomplished many other cures in Throat and Lung Troubles. In conversation with an acquaintance Mrs. Le Fevre also said: "If you will call on Mr. W. H. Schauss, a prominent china and art merchant of Springfield, Ohio, you will find that he, too, has had any amount of experience with Acker's English Remedy in his family, and thinks they cannot keep house without it."

Acker's English Remedy is sold by all druggists under a positive guarantee that your money will be refunded in case of failure, 25c., 50c. and $1 a bottle in United States and Canada. In England, 1s 2d., 2s. 3d., and 4s. 6d.
